Hints are ev'rywhere we look as we investigate this book.
 We must search to see if we can find the truths.
 With a magnifying glass, and the right amount of sass,
 we will be a group of modern supersleuths.

1. Where you go, that's where I'll go, so said Ruth, and where you live, that's where I'll live, that's the truth.
 I will take your God as my God, and your people as my kin, for you love me and I love you, our adventure must begin.
2. There was Mary, there was Martha in their home.
 One was working, one was praying on her own.
 Both things needed to be done, but it doesn't sound much fun, still they knew that very soon they would be welcoming God's Son.
3. Timothy was really very young,
 at the time when his adventure'd just begun.
 And when he answered God's call, it was helping his friend Paul:
 he showed courage and encouraged him to share God's love with all.
4. Esther lives in Persia, she's a Jew, and though scared she knew just what she had to do.
 She gave Xerxes a request: please don't keep my kin oppressed.
 Is she a hero or a villain? What do you think, what's your guess?
5. Abraham and Sarah were quite old.
 They could not have any children, they'd been told.
 Ishmael did no wrong, but then Isaac came along:
 who's the hero, who's the villain in this song?
